Washington Politicians Now Have
Harrison's Advisers All Selected
With But One Exception.

New York Not Yet in the Deal, but
May Have the Navy Under Certain Conditions.

Preparations for the Inaugural Ceremonies
Being Actively Pushed—How Cleveland and Harrison Will Exchange.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—The stream of callers on President-elect Harrison continued to-day. Among them were Vice-President Morton, and a number of other cabinet members. The impression prevails in some circles to-night that the cabinet of the incoming administration is complete with the exception of one name, and that no further change will be made in the slate as at present arranged. This is the make-up that receives the most credence:

Secretary of the Interior—John F. Smith.
Secretary of the Treasury—Wm. Windom.
Secretary of War—Redfield Proctor.
Secretary of the Navy—To be filled.
Secretary of the Interior—John F. Smith.
Postmaster-General—John W. Wadsworth.
Secretary of Agriculture—Jeremiah Rusk.

It is said to-night that Platt and Miller are distinctly out of the race, and that men are much more anxious to get a cabinet place, but it depends entirely upon the temper of the politicians.

Harrison, after hearing a great deal about the situation in the Empire state, told Morton that if he would not be a member of the cabinet, he would not be a member of the cabinet.

LOST HIS FEES.

A Washington Claim Agent Whose Scheme Was Spoiled by Vilas and Dickinson.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—Harvey Spaulding, a claim agent of this city, has brought suit for $100,000 each against Wm. F. Vilas and Dickinson, the present head of the post-office department. Spaulding alleges a large number of postmasters of the third, fourth and fifth classes put their claim against the government for a readjustment of salary in his hands, and that after much labor and expense he secured the passage of the act by congress directing the postmaster-general to readjust their claims. He charges both Vilas and Dickinson, in their capacity as postmasters-general, with having assisted him in every possible way in the presentation of these claims, they having with malicious intent to injure his business, caused drafts for the payment of postmaster accounts to be adjusted to be sent direct to the postmaster, accompanied by a circular stating that the agent was not to be paid.

The action prevails in some circles to-night that the cabinet of the incoming administration is complete with the exception of one name, and that no further change will be made in the slate as at present arranged. This is the make-up that receives the most credence:

Chamberlain Asks the Opposition to Formulate Their Scheme for the Government of Ireland.

The Radicals to Give a Banquet in Honor of Parnell—No Trace of Pignatelli in Answer.

LONDON, Feb. 28.—Sexton gave notice in the commons this afternoon that he would make a motion to compel Major Saunders to discontinue the name of the officers pledging to associate themselves with Major Saunders and violate their oaths of obedience to the crown in the event of a home rule parliament being granted Ireland. In reply to questions, Smith, government leader, declared no right to protect themselves. There is no prospect of the company raising the money to meet the attachment. The property will be sold at sheriff's sale and will undoubtedly be bid in by Schwab & Zimmerman, who have been in the city six months to redeem. The mine will be idle during this period.

MINNESOTA WHITE CAPS.
A Minneapolis Editor, After Many Warnings, Has a Very Narrow Escape.

MINNEAPOLIS, Feb. 28.—White Caps attempted to murder P. Smith, editor of the Minnesota Herald, this city to-night. Smith has been the recipient of fourteen letters since Jan. 27, all signed "White Caps," breathing threats of summary vengeance unless he leave the city immediately. The last letter was received last night and threatened the life of Smith unless his demands were complied with forthwith. Smith gave no heed to the letter, but he was in the city when a broad-brimmed slouch hat pulled over his eyes. Without a word he presented a pistol at Smith's head and fired. The bullet pierced Smith's ear, but being of but 22 caliber was flattened against his skull. He would be murdered, and no trace of him has yet been found. The wound on his head is not serious. Smith is apparently in little trouble from the bullet wound, but he is a little shocked at the attempt on his life. Smith is at a loss to account for the attack, having no knowledge of any one who would wish to take his life.

DEFIANT COLUMBIANS.
South American Neighbors Who Object to Foreign Ice Dealers.

BOSTON, Feb. 28.—A complication has arisen between the United States of America and the United States of Colombia. A schooner went from here to Aspinwall with a cargo of ice. When partly unloaded the Colombian government stopped further work and closed up the houses of the Boston Ice company with several hundred tons of ice. This action was taken because the government had sold the exclusive right to supply ice to the city of Aspinwall to a free port, this is considered an infraction of the treaty and an appeal was made to the United States.

CATTLE KATE'S RAID.
How a Wyoming Woman "Got Even" on a Cheyenne special.

Cheyenne special: A sensational story comes from Carbon county, which brings Mrs. Kate Maxwell, the owner of a small cattle ranch, into prominence as a daring and desperate woman, whose career may rival that of the notorious Belle Starr.

Mrs. Maxwell is known in the neighborhood as "Cattle Kate," and since the recent wholesale cattle raids her reputation has not been of the best. On her ranch are some twenty cowboys, who have been looting heavily during the last few weeks at a fare game in Beesemer.

"Cattle Kate" seldom goes into town, but when last Sunday, $1,500 was stolen from her bedroom she started out for gored. It is said she felt no reluctance toward the thieves, who were her own men, but was convinced that they were being forced by the two cities, Cheyenne and Laramie, and Goodsell, who were running the game.

Half the population of the little town and county are engaged in the game, and the gambling hall Monday night when Kate arrived. Kate was accompanied by her foreman, an ex-Chicago gambler, and both were armed to the teeth. She and her foreman, and rode her animal inside the place to her room, and the two gamblers were given ten minutes in which "to say their prayers."

This last suggestion, made by a cowboy who had heard Moody in San Francisco, was received with merriment by the gamblers. "Cattle Kate" and her foreman secured the money in the drawer and about the place, and it is believed got several thousand dollars.

Kate was disposed to be merciful now, as just as the two gamblers were being pinioned and the room were about to be entered, she suggested that their place be burned down and that the gamblers be given one chance for life.

"Give them a horse apiece and start them out of town. I've got all their stuff here, and if you'll come up to the ranch I'll divvy up."

There was a wild run for the horses, a couple of scrub ponies were furnished the "tin horn" gamblers. Kate gave them two $20 gold pieces and a rattling of a hundred pistol shots were started, Mazaepa-like, on their journey. Their way was made easy by some distance by the glare of the burning saloon, which was set on fire after being systematically pillaged.

The last seen of "Cattle Kate" she was riding at the head of a big cavalcade, headed by her ranch, and she gave safety with the money and ended the night with a dance.

Stockmen in Carbon and Sweetwater counties are organizing for protection against cattle thieves, and Kate's cowboys are looked upon already as a menace to order and prosperity. Kate, it is said, was a variety actress in Cheyenne, where she brought her outfit to Wyoming. She is now becoming a dime-novel border heroine according to the stories that are being told of her.

West Well Meets.
NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—A. B. Cleveland, president of A. B. Cleveland & Co., whole sale dealers in seeds, has been missing for three weeks. It is said he provided himself out of the company's funds and by loans with over $100,000 before leaving.

More Indictments Against Ives and Stayner.
NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—Six new indictments have been ordered against Ives and Stayner for forgery, larceny and fraudulent issue of stock. Bookkeeper Woodruff is known to the district attorney what he knows of his employer's methods. His narrative is not yet complete. It is said Woodruff's first words incriminate Partner Doremus to a great degree, and this branch of the subject will be investigated by the grand jury.

Reopened for Business.
BUTTE, Feb. 28.—(Special to the Independent.)—The grand opera house was reopened to-night, the event being one of importance to Butte, which has had no theatre attractions for the past few months, owing to the destruction of the opera house by fire. Judge Stephen De Wolfe made an eloquent and appropriate address, and the Rose Osborn company presented "A Celebrated Case." The house was packed by the elite of Butte.

THE MAJOR BUDD.
The Recent Action of Schwab & Zimmerman the Absorbing Topic in Butte.

BUTTE, Feb. 28.—(Special to the Independent.)—The chief topic of interest to-day was the action of Schwab & Zimmerman in attaching the Major Budd mine for $30,000.00. The principal owners said that this winds up the affairs of the Budd. They lay the blame on Dan Welsh, of Helena. One of the Budd owners explained the deal to your correspondent as follows: "Welsh owns one-third of the original Budd mine. When the company was formed to work the properties—the Budd, Paraiso, Rocky Mountain and the east and west extension of the Budd—were put into the company. Welch owned one-third of the Budd and he, with the rest of us, signed a contract to turn his interest over to the company when formed. Later he declined to do this, and when we attempted to force him, it developed that his interest was in his wife's name. We had twenty-five men at work and when we could not pay expenses Schwab & Zimmerman advanced the money. They now do right to protect themselves. There is no prospect of the company raising the money to meet the attachment. The property will be sold at sheriff's sale and will undoubtedly be bid in by Schwab & Zimmerman, who have been in the city six months to redeem. The mine will be idle during this period."

UNDER A ROCK.

John Webb, a Butte Miner, Crushed to Death in the Mountain Consolidated.

H. Hanley, Another Unfortunate, Falls to the Bottom of a Shaft and is Fatally Injured.

The First Accident Unavoidable, While the Second was Caused by a Miner's Carelessness.

BUTTE, Feb. 28.—(Special to the Independent.)—Last night a fragment of rock weighing about 300 pounds fell on John Webb, a miner in the Mountain Consolidated mine, causing his almost instant death. Webb was working with four other men on the 500-foot level east. The timbering had just been finished and the men started to go up on the second floor to go to work. James Hanley was ahead of Webb and heard him cry out suddenly as if in great pain and hastened back about ten feet to where he was. Two other miners came up at the same time and they found Webb lying under a 300-pound rock, which had fallen about twelve feet from the hanging wall and struck him on the back. The men rolled the stone off of him, but when they rolled him up he was dead. The coroner's jury this morning, composed principally of miners, made an examination of the level, and returned a verdict completely exonerating the management of the mine. Webb was 27 years of age and unmarried.

At 9:30 last night H. Hanley, a miner in the Katie Morris, two miles west of the city, wheeled a car into an open trap on the 140 foot level and fell a distance of fifty feet to the bottom of the shaft. He was terribly bruised and broken by the car of dirt which fell on him. He was taken to the city hospital, where he died. He had been working in the mine for a short time after 12 o'clock to-day. The accident was caused by the neglect of his partner, L. B. Spaulding, who left the trap open. Spaulding was going down to the bottom of the shaft to get some water for use in drilling. He opened the trap for that purpose and then went to get a drink. He did not inform Hanley, who was working in the drift, and the latter started out with a car of dirt and fell. He was 30 years old, unmarried and without relatives here.
